 “2016 has been a big year for Windowpane. They released their self-titled album (I am obsessed with it), threw a monster album release party to mark the occasion, had their new single "Words & Nothing More" picked up by KISW for the rock community to gobble up, released a documentary called "There Is No Such Thing as the Record Label Fairy" AND will be playing KISW's Pain In The Grass on the main stage on August 21st. Can they fit anything else into their schedules!? You betcha...” -

Taryn Daly – KISW Blog, Taryn's Wreckreation Guid: Windowpane video premier party (Apr 22, 2016)

 “Headliner Windowpane vocalist/guitarist Glenn Cannon welcomes fans to the show with humility and sincere appreciation but doesn’t hold back during their performance, singing with emotion and authority. This is true of the entire band’s stage presence. At times they even look angry, wielding their guitars like weapons.”

Recent Quotes

 “Beautiful, ugly, smooth, gritty... Windowpane is an outstanding band with a great story and a group of guys we’re happy to call friends and proud to support.”

-Ryan Castle- Music Director- KISW 99.9 “The Rock”

 “This record represents some of Seattle’s finest rock & roll”
“Honest, raw and powerful!”

—Jonathan Plum- Owner- London Bridge Studios

 “This album brought me to tears”

-Taryn Daly- Night Host- KISW 99.9 “The Rock”

 “Windowpane’s latest album is full of biting guitars, heart thumping bass and ferocious drumming, while still allowing Cannon’s vocals to float above the brilliantly crafted songs!”

-Glen Casebeer- Editor- Northwest Music Scene

 “This album starts at 10 and somehow builds momentum with every track!”

-Doug Duin- Morning Host- 104.9 “The Brew”

 “Start to finish this album is an absolute MONSTER! Stadium-sized riffs on top of infectious grooves that get stuck in your head for days at a time... all while maintaining a level of originality rarely found in today’s musical landscape.”

-Matt Koch- Late-Night Host- KISW “The Rock”
